

Preparatory course „Propädeutikum“ at Studienkolleg of the Technische Universität Berlin

German as a foreign language and introduction to the technical language
of mathematics and physics

Who can participate in this course?

All international Bachelor and Master applicants to the TU Berlin holding qualifications which entitle them to study in the Federal Republic of Germany may apply for the "Propädeutikum".

Applicants who have up to now acquired a certificate at Intermediate Level, B 2.2/C1, DSH 1, or a TestDaF result between 12 to 15 points may take the "Feststellungsprüfung Deutsch" within this course.

What are the course contents?

Each year from February to July and September to December the „Studienkolleg“ offers a course for all international applicants to the TU Berlin.

The combined course includes

- German as a foreign language as preparation to sit the „Feststellungsprüfung Deutsch“
- technical language of mathematics and physics

„Propädeutikum“ or language course?

„Propädeutikum“ participants do not only improve their German language skills. They also enhance their school knowledge of mathematics, acquire study-related technical language and thus increase their chances of successfully completing their studies.

The course concludes with the „Feststellungsprüfung Deutsch“.

Sufficient results provided, it is recognized as equivalent to DSH 2 at the TU Berlin.

What do the course and German language examination cost?

Participation in the "Propädeutikum" is free of charge. You only need to pay the fee for the Semester Ticket (ca. 300€), which is valid for the Berlin public transportation system for one semester.

During the course, you will be an enrolled student at the TU Berlin.
